How the Telematics.com job board can benefit you

With a specialist area such as telematics is important you find the right candidate to fill particular positions you have available within your organisation.

As you may be aware jobs within the telematics industry can be tough to recruit for. That's why we set up the job recruitment board on Telematics.com (<http://www.telematics.com/telematics-jobs/>) to help companies bridge the gap and find candidates with the skill sets they require.

Once a job is listed in our job board we will publish it in our monthly newsletter (featuring jobs, events and news) as well as our specific job newsletter which we send out to a massive 38,000 telematics professionals. You also have the ability to search through resumes submitted to Telematics.com by job seeking professionals.

We work with employers and candidates from all over the world to facilitate with positions in all telematics categories: Telematics Service Providers, Telematics Technology Providers, Telematics Insurance Companies & Brokers, Telematics OEMs, Motoring Services Organisations and Mobile Network Operators & Mobile Technology amongst others.

Job submissions are currently priced at a limited time offer of $25 for a 30 day period. You will be taken through to PayPal checkout during the job submission process.
